The Department of Psychology at Florida International University (FIU) is searching for a candidate for an Assistant Professor tenure track position in Cognitive Neuroscience. The successful candidate must have a solid track record of scholarship in refereed journals, a strong potential for extramural funding, and proficiency in cutting-edge methodologies for research in Cognitive Neuroscience and Neuropsychology (e.g., advanced neuroimaging). Ideally, the applicant's area of research interest should complement the existing faculty in Developmental Science and/or Clinical Science in Child and Adolescent Psychology programs, although all areas of Cognitive Neuroscience will be considered. Faculty in these programs research typical development and developmental psychopathology or treatment outcome with a focus on ADHD, executive function, language, autism, substance abuse, depression and anxiety, memory, and multisensory processing. The department has 32 tenure track faculty (and 10 instructors) with tenure track faculty spread across four doctoral specialty areas (i.e., Developmental, Clinical Science, Legal, and I/O) and is adding a Cognitive Neuroscience area. Currently department faculty hold over $35 million in grants from federal agencies (e.g., NIMH, NICHD, NIDA, NIAAA, IES, NSF). The Cognitive Neuroscience area within the Department of Psychology is part of a broader campus-wide initiative to develop further Cognitive Neuroscience research and education, involving faculty in six Departments in the College of Arts and Sciences and additional Departments within the Colleges of Education, Engineering, Nursing and Health Sciences, and the FIU Herbert Wertheim College of Medicine. The individual hired will join 8 existing faculty members to help shape the new Cognitive Neuroscience area within the Department of Psychology. Position is contingent upon Funding.

Qualified candidates are encouraged to apply to Job Opening ID 506767 at careers.fiu.edu and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a research statement in a single pdf file. Please send a duplicate set of application materials and direct inquiries to Dr. Raul Gonzalez, Chair, Search Committee (raul.gonzalezjr@fiu.edu). Three letters of recommendation should also be sent to the Search and Screen Committee Chair.
